The first reading might be what Jesus was talking about when he scolded the disciples. They wanted to stop an exorcist whom they didn't know. In both cases, whether prophesying or driving out demons, someone wanted them to stop. The persons doing those things were not members of the group. In the gospel, the disciples objected simply because they didn't know the ones who were casting out demons. Back in Moses' days, the two "renegades" were actually on the list, they just weren't present with the rest gathered around Moses. Both Joshua and the disciples of Jesus thought they should control who could do God's work and who couldn't.

The temptation to control things is pretty common, but we can't be truly at peace till we allow God to be the one in control. God loves all people, even those who don't know him. So if we see someone who has a spiritual gift, it could be God's way of helping that person to know about

His love. There are many non-Christians who are very generous or patient or wise, who could come to faith if they realized that God was acting through them. You don't have to bowl them over with evangelistic fervor. Just the observation that you see God's love in them might get them thinking about their faith.

The Apostles Creed reminds us that the Church is catholic, or universal. All are welcome, because Jesus died for everyone. As Moses said in the first reading, wouldn't it be great if God sent his gifts of the Spirit to them all?

Tom Schmidt

Pastor's Letter

September 29, 2024

Dear Family:

The Book of Numbers gives instruction on being open to God working in the world even in and among unexpected people. Today's text introduces Joshua, a key figure in the development of the Israelites. But here Joshua is still learning. Moses teaches that God works as God wills and expresses his desire that we were all prophets. A prophet is one who speaks for God in human language to human beings.

The psalmist concurs in his own way. God's law is perfect in its wisdom, especially in its prescriptions for our treatment of one another. James expounds upon this when he gives his harshest condemnation of the rich. In his experience, the rich are focused only on their own gain in this life. They store their treasures at the expense of employees who struggle to get by. James declares their reward to be limited while the faithful have much more for which to hope.

In Mark's Gospel passage for today, Jesus teaches that all those who share the Good News must be accepted and lauded. He further explains that true models are those who give freely and do not prevent others from seeking a right relationship with God. Consequences for those who lead people astray are dire. Jesus as Christ, Son of God and Son of Man, wants all to encounter God in truth.

Some questions for reflection:

- Joshua becomes a significant leader of God's people. Here we see his early struggle to learn what it means to lead. Does this give you hope in your vocation?
- James challenges the rich in his time and does not believe that they are able to be genuine, giving, and active in their faith lives. Many Christians find themselves quite comfortable in our contemporary society. How might his reading challenge us? Other Christians identify more with those who suffer in the current social order. How might this inspire us?
- In Mark, Jesus challenges us to be open to God working in and through unlikely people and places. Are there paths you can take in your life to rise to this challenge?

This past week was St. John School Homecoming Week. It was good to see so many Alumni gather, remember & celebrate our long history. Thanks to all the school associations that bless our Church and School with great generosity. A special thanks to the Senior Retreat Leaders and chaperones that gave of their free time to bless the lives of our Senior Eagles with a deepening faith experience.

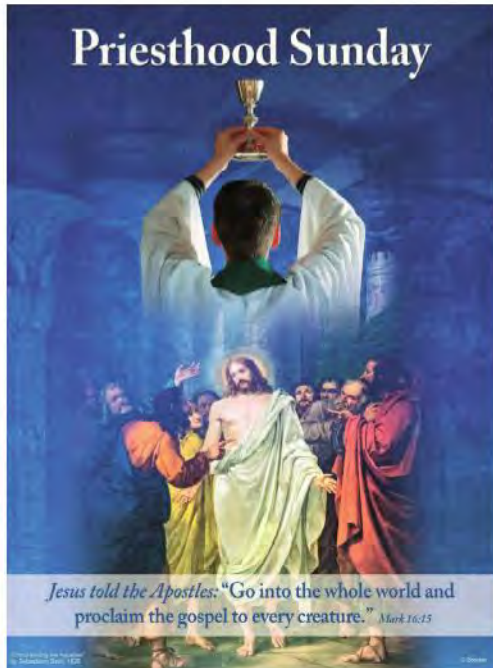

I will be away next weekend for my annual trip to play tennis at the beach with my tennis buddies. I enjoy this time of fellowship with my friends and get an opportunity to read all the Gospels for Advent as I start preparing Advent Liturgies. I will also be away during the following week until Thursday for our Priest's Continuing Education Conference. Fr. Jon Koehler and Fr. Tom Ranzino will be presiding at Eucharist next weekend. Please give them a warm St. John welcome.

Be assured of my prayers for you in my absence and please pray for me, my brother priests and our bishop for an inspiring conference.

Peace,

Fr. Greg

Church Dedication for October: The Holy Rosary and Respect Life Month

Major Feast: Feast of Our Lady of the Rosary (October 7)

The Rosary is one of the most powerful forms of prayer that the Church gives to the faithful; popes, saints, even the Blessed Mother herself have spoken on the importance of praying the Rosary. It's a simple but profound way to meditate on the life of Jesus and to grow closer to Mary who will always lead us to her Son.

Join us to pray the Rosary at the home of Betty Aucoin, 57765 Senator Gay Boulevard every Wednesday during the month of October at 6pm. For more information, you may call Betty at 225.776.1685 or Derryl Comeaux at 225.687.3950.

Prayer for Protection During a Storm

Loving God, maker of heaven and earth, protect us in your love and mercy. Send the Spirit of Jesus to be with us, to still our fears and give us confidence. In the stormy waters, Jesus reassured his disciples by his presence, calmed the storm, and strengthened their faith. Guard us from harm during this storm and renew our faith to serve you faithfully.

Give us the courage to face all difficulties and the wisdom to see the ways your Spirit binds us together in mutual assistance. With confidence we make our prayer through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Amen. (Prayers via Catholic Household Blessings and Prayers. USCCB. 2007)
